

André Carneiro

To improve is to change.

Born in Braga, studied in Spain, worked in Ireland and in the UK, change is his favourite word.

André wanted to be a football player, became a doctor and now works in Medical Affairs. Energetic and optimist, André is proud of all the changes he made in his life, changing career and country, always able to adapt and move forward. Despite what is said, André knows the path is to keep moving and never settle down for less, always improving. All the changes in his career were never random, André is exactly where he wants to be: working in international medical affairs and doing an MBA. Motivated by challenges André's main talent is creativity. But above all his great professional assets, what André values the most is to be remembered as a good person rather than a good professional.
