

Humberto Cunha

Born with the talent of people and numbers.

Humberto knew that talent without hard work was not enough since he was a young boy from Monção. So, with a degree in Economics, he started to work in the banking sector. But he soon realized he was destined to do other things. He entered in the industrial finance area with BorgWarner and, after that, he made part of investment projects which made a difference in the industry working in top automotive groups such as ZF or Bosch.

His greatest achievement on this path, until this day, was to coordinate multicultural teams, give them support and training in financial software in various factories. As a positive person, he is like a chameleon - Humberto adapts very easily to the challenges - a strength which he developed thanks to the good and not so good times. Wishes for the future? Health to continue to pursue his dreams and that Benfica - his football team - becomes champion every year.
