

João Aguiar

Only a challenging life is a meaningful one.

Born and raised in Porto, it was in his city that he also chose to start his own family. With a degree in Economics, João started to work in the Hotel Industry in the Inventory area and then moved to an elevator company, in the acquisitions and economic viabilities sector, working his career all the way up. This last experience is one of the best things he ever did, he felt his work meant something, having a great financial impact on the company.

When his daughter was born he had to rethink his life, and now she is his priority. João is a problem solver and has the ability to overcome any challenge, an example of that is having started surfing at the age of 38 years old. Starting new and fresh is always a great life fuel to make it differently.
