A leader making other leaders.

If you are in need of a book recommendation, Valter is the one to ask. He enjoys a good story, as well as history, and those transporting him to other worlds are his favourite.

This may be surprising if you consider Valter comes from the very down-to-earth field of accounting. He had his start in a bank, but then went on to explore occupational health before returning to a more financial-focused area. He has overcome truly challenging situations and relates that to his need of getting out of his comfort zone.

Valter aims for big goals in his career, which involves getting everybody engaged to his own big goals. Valter wishes to become the type of leader who breeds more leaders and relies on his skills to help him get there and, of course, this MBA. Valter relies on his soft skills to help him get there and, of course, this MBA.

Valter prides himself in speaking to every single person in his workplace and believes that valuing people is essential for company growth.
